

November 17 2020 - 5:30PM

Aurora Energy's community grants offer support for $10,000 projects

Brinley Duggan Local News

 Giving grants: City Mission's Mission Health (pictured) will receive a grant from Aurora. Picture: Paul Scambler.

Five Tasmanian organisations have been given grants from Aurora to aid in their contributions to the community.

The grants went to Karadi Aboriginal Corporation, KIDS Foundation, Launceston City Mission, Look Good Feel Better and Mission School Inc.

Aurora CEO Rebecca Kardos said the COVID-19 pandemic had been difficult on a number of Tasmanian businesses and hoped the grants would foster a reconnection to the community.

RELATED NEWS

- Aurora community grant gives Giant Steps pupils a voice
- Aurora Energy's digital capacity building grants to expand reach of Tasmanian community groups

"We're looking forward to working closely with these organisations from across our state to provide them with the opportunity to reconnect with members of their communities in a safe environment," she said.

"As a proud Tasmanian organisation supporting Tasmanians, we are pleased that we can lend a helping hand during these challenging times because it's our community too."

The grant for Missing School will enable the organisation to offer sick children in Tasmania the ability to have a learning assistance "telepresence robot" in their home.

Look Good Feel Better is a Cancer Patients Foundation group and the grant money will enable them to deliver their confidence boosting services at an increased capacity.

Launceston City Mission will refurbish the Mission Health treatment rooms, Karadi will continue its Blossoms Project and KIDS Foundation's grant will offer assistance for its TANGO camp in Tasmania.

Visit the examiner online

<https://www.examiner.com.au/story/7016596/aurora-funds-community-connection/>